Foreword

As our high school days are coming to an end, all too rapidly, we find ourselves with mixed emotions. At one moment, we are all eager to join with our elders, hoping to better the world by having a definite hand in its destiny; yet, in the next minute, we are reluctant to leave the good times, joy, and security of youth, the warmth, friendliness, and pleasure of school life.

In innumerable ways, our years at school have meant a great deal to us all. They have meant the opportunity to acquire and increase our knowledge of the world around us; they have given us the chance to adjust ourselves to the busy society of our country. To all of us, these eventful years at Fairhaven High School, have been a stepping stone to the future — to the challenge placed within our very reach.

As our yearbook theme this year, we have chosen the American Indian — symbol of courage, strength, and initiative — qualities we all strive to develop within ourselves. In times to come, we hope the pages of this book will cause us to remember “that day when . . . ” or remark, “Wasn’t that the best . . . ?” These pages will make us realize that we all shared in building the future of Fairhaven High School, and that a part of each of us remains within the school as an indication of what Ashley Montague has called “the immortality of personal influence.” We can never forget Fairhaven High School, and we hope that Fairhaven High School will always remember us — The Class of 1955.

Let each of us remember — a well lived today makes each yesterday a treasured dream, and every tomorrow a vision of hope.

Preface

I.

By the shores of the Acushnet,
By the shining Atlantic waters;
Stands the high school of Fairhaven,
Dwell her valiant sons and daughters.

II.

Fond behind them lies remembrance
Of the carefree days of youth,
Bright before them lies the future,
Endless knowledge, shining truth.

III.

May they set upon life's journey
As the Indian braves of yore,
With a strong, unyielding courage,
Which may open any door.

IV.

With this thought in mind, we show you
Now, the purpose of our theme —
Let us hope we 55'ers
Someday will fulfill this dream.

OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL

To the Class of 1955:

In Washington, D. C. the government maintains the National Bureau of Standards to provide a place where materials of all kinds can be given accurate and scientific tests.

Scattered across our country there are countless private laboratories where manufacturers test the great variety of products that pour from our factories.

The business man making and selling a product in competition with others is vitally concerned about quality control. He insists that today's product must be at least as good as yesterday's, and if, by applications of science and Yankee ingenuity it can be improved, it must be better.

Through the years, home, school and community have been testing you. They have been interested to know what knowledge and skill you had acquired, how well you could work and play with others, what persistence you would show when tasks were hard, what ideals of conduct you would display, what ambition you had for the future, what appreciation you had of your rights and responsibilities as a citizen.

Now, as seniors, you hope that your tests and measurements will indicate that you are worthy of receiving a Fairhaven High School diploma. But the tests will not end with graduation from high school. You will be tested and judged as long as you live. Why not, therefore, set up your own personal quality control laboratory? Why not write down some definite standards of character and achievement and from time to time compare your accomplishment with the standards you have set up? The self-evaluation made possible by such a system will enable you to know whether or not you are maintaining the standards necessary for personal satisfaction and for worthy membership in home and community.

My good wishes go with you all.

Sincerely,

CHESTER M. DOWNING,

Principal.

CLASS OF

Freshmen Class Officers

Rosemary Murphy, President; Florence Majocka, Secretary; Sandra Burgess, Vice-President; Barry Behn, Treasurer.

Sophomore Class Officers

Mrs. Howland, Class Advisor; Christine Brodeur, Treasurer; Judith Robinson, President; Ida Mello, Vice-President; John Alden, Secretary.

Junior Prom Week

Mrs. Doris Bruce, Class Advisor; Susan Leach, Treasurer; Nathan Heuberger, President; Katharine Mahoney, Vice-President; Pauline Kolasz, Secretary.

The main facet of the Junior year is the preparation for the future, either higher education or a job itself. To help us achieve these goals our high school affords many opportunities in numerous fields — English, languages, mathematics, sciences, manual arts, and commercial skills.

The future of tomorrow's world rests on the shoulders of today's high school students. Thus by the knowledge gained in this year, the Junior in future years can advance peace, government, medicine, literature, athletics, and every undertaking of mankind.

To the academic field, the class of "56" has made many contributions. There have been several members, who have composed superlative themes, which were rewarded with honors. Our ambition is evidenced by the fact that more candidates from our class were initiated into the Honor Society, than from any class before us.

Despite our great feats, however, the Junior class admires the accomplishments of our respected Seniors and pays tribute to them as outstanding examples.

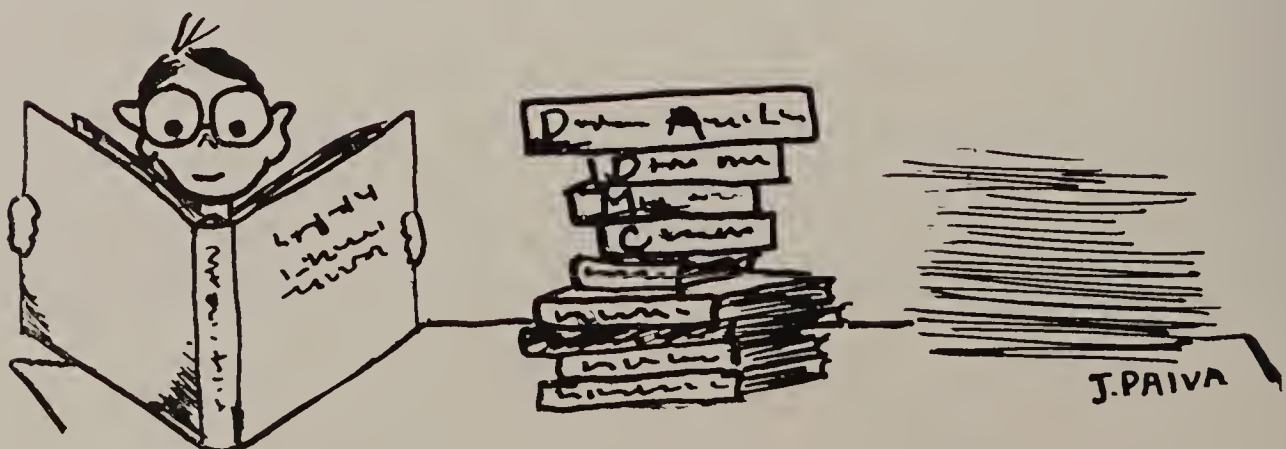

May we wish you success and luck, Seniors, in your scholastic efforts of the future.

We shall now assail the task of unveiling before you and the whole world the prowess of Fairhaven High School in the field of athletics. This prowess could not be attained without the sterling contributions of the tenacious athletes of the Junior class (with the aid of some Seniors).

With the birth of Autumn, our potential athletes sprang forth with zeal onto the gridiron, and throughout the mighty campaign, our eminent fellow classmates contributed to the glory of the blue and white. When the basketball season began, again our Juniors came forth to answer the call of duty, and exhibited their skill on this count.

With spring, the great crusade toward the baseball diamond begins, led by the inspired leader, our Junior. His fleet running, powerful hitting, and keen fielding eye, make him the admiration of the school and pride of the class.

Thus, you see that our Junior has contributed an overwhelming force to the sports of our alma mater. As for themselves, our heroes are fully repaid; they realize that whatever they put into a sport, they will obtain from it an equal reward. The sense of sportsmanship grows from the participation in the sports offered by the school athletic program. The Junior's physique is developed, and he is changed from an ordinary mortal to an Apollo. His complete mental and physical outlook is changed by his determination to win, the ecstasy of victory, his spirit when losing, and his acceptance of a loss. Nowhere, absolutely nowhere, could you find such an athlete except in the class of "56".

Having endeavored in the first few paragraphs to tell you of the goals and attainments of our illustrious Junior Class, we shall now look into the social and extra-curricular activities.

Naturally, Fairhaven High offers more to its students than just an academic schedule. After all, even among the brightest, there is a call to the social whirl. Highly anticipated are the dances, and the Junior Prom, the highlight of the year, creates the greatest excitement among the Juniors, and also among the under classmen.

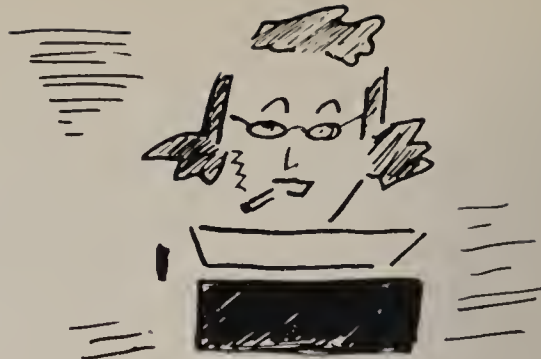

Fairhaven High has a selection of clubs, which satisfy the varied interests of its many students. By all means, we feel that the Seniors have helped in many ways, and contributed to their success, but these clubs could not prosper or exist without the guiding influence of their mainstay, the Juniors. Most of us are acquainted with or belong to these clubs, which are pictured on the following pages, and enjoy, and look forward to their meetings.

The Junior Class has many accomplishments of which it may be proud, but its greatest achievement is the school newspaper, the "Blue Banner". This paper came into existence this past year through much hard work and perseverance.

Thus the diary of the Junior Class comes to a close, but the deeds accomplished by this illustrious class will go on living in the minds of many.

Class History

Many moons ago, under the tireless leadership of Princess June Long and her Council, Earl Sherman, Dot Govoni, and Tom Howes, our splendid tribe began its exciting career as the 100th Freshman Class of FHS, aided by the sagacity of Great White Master Tracy. In hopes of a great rain, (money for our treasury) we danced at the "Snow Ball" with the assistance of the participating Class of '54, long since departed. To further add to the wampum collection, we bartered graphite sticks (pencils) for "white man's metals". The Mattapoissett branch of our tribe, which was soon to join us, was led by Jim Hubbard, Dick Keyes, Jocie Kinney, and Nancy Rebello. We thus completed our first step toward becoming Princesses and Chiefs.

At the War Party of our Sophomore year, Princess Minni-Ha-Howland dragged the weary tribe through the rapids of greeting card sales. Dutiful June Long and her ever-faithful executive board comprised of Eddie Sylvia, Vice-President, Earl Sherman, Secretary, and Tom Howes, Treasurer, headed our tribe. While the March winds howled outside the Teepee, the up-and-coming (well!) Class of 1956 joined hands with us to the tom-toms of the Rhythm Kings. Before embarking on the Acushnet River for the annual spring catch of trout, our chief favored us with a piece of Injun legend. Jocie Kinney and Audrey Brito were chosen by vote of the Injun tribe to lead us in the "heap big" ceremony in the fall.

Returning during Harvest Time, Chief Ed Sylvia and Council June Long, Tom Howes, and Jocie Kinney, with the wisdom of Squaw Noyer, exchanged hand-painted parchment for trader's gold. This project inspired the young Injun maids Dot Govoni, Jocie Kinney, Jo Ann Longmore, Peg Montgomery, Judy Taylor, Sylvia Souza, and brave Eugene Rose to dabble on the pages of the Injun Legend Log known as the HUTTLESTONIAN. The tribe was "heap" proud of Joan Ellis, Peg Montgomery, Ray Dextraze, Jim Hubbard, and Bill Whitehead who represented the tribe at the Grand Tribal State Conventions for young squaw and braves. Many moons had passed when, once again, we gathered in the Gym Teepee for the "Candlelight Ball" and the sweet strains of Matt Perry's Orchestra. 'Way up on the totem pole, be bowed to Peg Montgomery as President of the Honor Society, Virginia Kowal as Vice-President, Blanche Pepin, Secretary, and Arnett Jenkins, Treasurer. Our adventurous tribe bade farewell to our elders on Junior Day with Virginia Kowal and Eugene Rose having achieved feathers from the College and Harvard Clubs for outstanding feats accomplished through the year. Sandy Hogarth, our chief's daughter, was chosen by the tribal members to be Princess "Bee-yoo-ti-ful" at the Junior Prom, while young squaws and braves glided in their canoes to the music of Bud Lilley. We had added many feats of strength, courage, and wisdom to our growing list of great deeds during our third year, and looked forward to our final year before becoming Chiefs.

With heavy hearts, we entered the sacred portals of FHS, knowing it was the last time the whole tribe would be together. We felt, therefore, that our favorite members should hold the offices of our tribe. Eugene Rose became our President, Barbara Dreher, Vice-President, Dorothy Govoni, Secretary, and Claudette Richard, Treasurer. Paleface, Harry Jonckheere, joined the tribe to learn the ways of Injun life. Our fall hunting party was a success, and we called the Junior-Senior Dance the "Turkey Hop" in memory of the fellow who was our "guest of honor." Because our Injun Log had grown to such fame, we asked Mary Hennessy, Dick Harding, Sandy Hogarth, Arnett Jenkins, Cammy Bangs, Rosemary Richards, Virginia Kowal, Bill Phillips, June Long, and Blanche Pepin to assist the struggling staff of the previous year. Again, our tribe presented two outstanding Injun citizens. Dot Govoni was named DAR representative, and Luke Poyant became versed in the politics of the State Injun Government. At the annual gathering of the Injun Players, ten talented tribe members presented a tale of "white man folklore", Cap and Gown. In the Council Room 7 of Great Teepee, we found that the engraved logs of past years were being replaced by shiny new ones. Jo Ann Longmore was chosen Great Squaw Homemaker of the year. Into the Injun Service went braves Claflin, Dextraze, Frates, and Gomes. At the All-Injun State Conference were tom-tom beaters and music-makers Bob Brunette, Pat Cabral, Rod Cordeiro, Dot Govoni, Jocie Kinney, Jo Ann Longmore, Millie Majocka, Sue Murphy, and Gene Rose. Although the Senior Prom, Banquet, and Graduation are still in the future, we know they will be great successes.

In the short time of forty-eight moons, the Great Tribe of '55 has proved to be worthy Chiefs and Princesses, and will be long remembered in the "heap big" Fairhaven Teepee.

Class Will

Ugh! We, the exalted Class of 1955, being of sound mind and memory, and realizing that we are about to depart from the sacred portals of Fairhaven High School, do hereby bequeath to posterity the remnants of our glory amassed through the many moons we have spent here. How!

Maggie Dyer leaves her turbulent tongue to Carol Hebert.

Gene Rose bequeaths to Nate Heuberger, the secret of his success with teachers.

Mr. Clement’s history classes leave him Clint Ewell’s blackboard map of the United States.

Jocie Kinney leaves “salt water and sun” to Kay Mahoney.

Ken Niznik leaves his four tennis rackets to Anne Sherman in the hopes that she may be able to use the strings.

To anyone who finds it necessary to enter the apartment, we, the puffing and panting HUTTLESTONIAN Staff, leave the hope that someday an escalator will be installed to aid the weary feet.

Harry Jonckheere leaves the United States.

Bill Whitehead bequeaths his copy of “How to Win Friends and Influence People” to Gilly Santos.

Tony Frates leaves his romantic “moose call” to Billy Selley.

For the Librarian’s Notebook: a few Seniors who have second period study in the library leave the essay, “A Dissertation on the Art of Talking Silently” and that top best seller, “How to Change Your Seat in One Easy Lesson.”

Dot Govoni bequeaths her expressive index finger to that notorious orchestra leader, Tony Santos.

To Carol French, Susan Murphy leaves a string of resined cat-gut.

“Goldilocks” Hann bequeaths a pair of scissors to Carol Chase in the hopes that Carol will have more courage.

June Long leaves a set of iron nerves to next year’s Senior Play prompter.

Jean Lawton and Mim Pacheco leave Mr. Boyce a dozen cases of Pyrex test tubes to replace the ones that were mysteriously broken.

"Bevo" Francis bequeaths to Mr. Parkinson a pair of pink suede shoes to go with his red and green plaid vest.

Bob Brunette leaves John Rogers a copy of "Bugle Call Rag."

Eddie Sylvia leaves a pair of stilts to "Nooky" Pina for use in future basketball games.

Eva Tollefson leaves her altitude reports to Evelyn DePiro.

Mary Hennessy leaves all her short bulletins about the Senior Play to the teachers. After all, they took only ten minutes to read!

Pat Meads leaves her furs to Mr. Entin's hampsters for those chilly winter nights in the biology lab.

To Monsieur Noyes, the French Club bequeaths a copy of the newspaper, "La Vie" with a minor change in the title — "C'est La Vie!"

To any Juniors (namely two certain Mattapoissett girls) who wish to be our beneficiaries, we leave the hope that they will be mentioned in the Class Will of 1956.

To the Mello twins, Anne and Jane Moore leave their sisterly love.

The great vaudeville trio of Bangs, Darwin, and Rodgers wills its hidden talent to its successors, Field, Hirst, and Roy.

In case Jimmy O'Leary ever has fond thoughts of "amo, amas . . .", Dick Harding grievously bequeaths him his Latin notes.

To next year's HUTTLESTONIAN editor-in-chief, Peggy Montgomery gladly leaves her much used statement, "Patience, Mr. Dias!"

Jim Hubbard, Boys' Stater '54, wills to this year's Girls' State delegate, a short wave radio set connecting Amherst with Bridgewater.

To future FHS cheerleaders, Audrey Brito leaves limitless energy in case they have need of it.

Thus, on this 1st day of April in the year of Our Lord 1955, we, the bravest class ever, do declare this our last will and testament, and hereby appoint Mrs. Martin executor. In the distance, we hear the rhythmic beating of the tom-toms signaling us to journey to the Happy Hunting Ground. How!

Class Prophecy

Hail, Great Medicine Man! Tell us what the future offers to the braves and maidens of the Class of '55.

"Oh, my papeese! After conferring with the gods, I have this message from them to you."

'Howah-howeee? Ugh! Mugga-humba-whoompa timunbagag agum hunga-hunga kowa-goopee gubba gloomp. Kueloo-molah. Phewee. Wuu. Hermah kimo-slobbi. Zoop fa loonch. Kowa-gloopie!'

Translated it means:

Well, kids, the outlook is extremely auspicious. We see—

—Co-pilots Dick Aldinger and Louis Almond breaking the light barrier in their ultra-atomic strato-cruiser, invented by the eminent aero-scientist, Dr. Kenneth Niznik, N. G. Among its passengers are the distinguished authority on etiquette, Miss Patricia Meads and her associates Miles, Lais-cell, Dyer, Carlson, and Louro. Also aboard is the literary team of Harding and Potkay, just returning from a European tour, accompanied by that great Shakespearean company of D. Brennan-Martin, Ltd. Serving a delicious luncheon are stewardesses Hann and Tollefson.

—In a tomb deep in the forgotten realm of sandy Egypt, the well-known archeologists, Barcellos and Pentleton, probing into the past. Was that a noise? No, only the Rodgers-Whitehead Safari coming through a dim passage as these matheo-scientists search for the Yorkus Theory of $2x(\frac{1}{2}pq)^* \div \frac{1}{4}r^*$. Combining their abilities, these mental giants uncover Rip Van-Drew, Bergeron, Coehlo, and Fernandes establishing the desert branch of R. Correia-Pothier Dry Cleaning Works.

—A modern university in Fairhaven, erected by Dick Keyes with the funds donated by the magnanimous philanthropist, John Darwin, Esq. There, Millie Majocka instructs the Ohnesorgian Method of Penmanship, and Dot and Pat Govoni teach their theory of ten-part harmony. Ginny Kowal, using the Bangs' Elementary Spelling Dictionary, teaches the children of the former J. Mello, E. Faria, P. Higgins, and B. Linhares.

—But just a minute! The Pike-Brennan Circus is in town. Before we enter the Big Top, we stop to see the Side Show. Look! The strongest man in the world, Richard Ryan, lifts 10,000 lbs. with one finger! Why there's that Snake Charmer, "Fifi" Hennessy, in that other tent. The circus begins as Ring Master Don Madeiros blows his whistle. Tumblers A. Brito and J. Kinney perform to the music of the “Krazy Jazz”, composed by Rod Cordeiro, and played by the distinguished Circus Band, “The Hep Cats” — P. Montigny, M. Calassa, F. Pacheco, R. Benoit, S. Francis, and A. Santos. In the Grand Finale Parade, H. Ryan, J. Lawton, S. Eddy, and C. Burgess are riding pink elephants. A convention of secretaries is in town, and L. Amaral, S. Dexter, J. Freitas, F. Cathcart, C. McNeilly, M. Santos, A. Souza, and B. Tripp are among the spectators.

—In 1960, at the Olympic Games, C. Hiller and K. Rose breaking all track records. In the Sports’ Hall of Fame, are Howes, Sylvia, Bettencourt, Sherman, Hubbard, and Bailey. S. Hogarth, I. Knudsen, J. Romeo, V. Bariteau, L. Fuller, N. Czaya, and A. and J. Moore are named Sports Women of the year.

—As I step into the renowned A. Jenkins Memorial Hospital, war heroes General Lagasse, Admiral Dextraze, Breault, Bachand, Claflin, Normandeau, Chase, Frates, Gomes, and Hardie, in the newly completed lounge designed by Bill Phillips, Sylvia Souza, and Roberta Hawkins. On duty in this ultra-modern hospital are nurses Bruce, Calnen, Ellis, Hobson, Lorraine, Long, Rebello, and Young.

—In the illustrious law firm of Poyant, Rose, and G. Richards, the Grand Corps of Specialized Secretaries Dot Costa, Ruth Gatie, Arlene Lewis, Mim Pacheco, Blanch Pepin, Midge Wilcox, and Ruth and Roberta Soares diligently attend to the business at hand — the merger of the Rowland Motor Craft Company with the Correia Boat Building Concern.

—Featured in a band concert at Hastings’ Bowl of Cushman Park are the noted musicians Dreher, Longmore, Taylor, Murphy, Copeland, Brunette. Presenting vocal selections are Pat Cabral and Boucher. To Rita Guilmette’s Girl Scouts, the Dutras sell “twin popsicles”.

—At a diplomatic luncheon at C. Richard’s Drive-in, car-hops Janice Mackay and Kathie Finnerty take orders from Peg Montgomery and Rosemary Richards who are entertaining Foreign Representative from Belgium, Harry Jonckheere, with the aid of Garcelon’s Home-printed Menus.

Thus has the future been revealed to the Class of ’55!

Junior Prom

The most glamorous social event of our Junior year, the eagerly anticipated Junior Prom, was held on Friday, May 7, 1954, with Bud Lilley's Orchestra supplying some lilting music. It was an exciting night for all of us. Decorated like a Chinese Garden, gay with huge colored dragons and birds of paradise adorning the walls and stage curtains, the auditorium was a picturesque scene. Paper lanterns were strung across the ceiling, adding to the beauty of the setting. Even the dance programs carried out the theme with miniature Oriental parasols on the tassels.

Pretty Sandra Hogarth was crowned Queen, with a circlet of natural flowers, by Gerry Cochoran, last year's Queen. Sandra looked lovely in a Champagne colored gown of lace and taffeta. The Queen's attendants were Barbara Dreher, Jocelyn Kinney, June Long and Claudette Richards.

The selection of the Queen, the festive decorations and the fine dancing, including a rousing Bunny Hop, combined to make the evening one we will always remember.

June Long

Junior Day

One of the most colorful and exciting highlights of the past year, was Junior Day, with both its comic and serious sides.

A solemn procession of Seniors into the auditorium, a portent of coming commencement opened the proceedings. Edward Sylvia, president of the Junior Class received the traditional mantle from the Senior Class president, and various awards were presented.

The majority of the time, however, was given to the farcial Senior Skit, a satire of the program, "This is Your Life", and that of the Juniors which followed. This had for its setting a courtroom in which members of the class were tried for certain misdemeanors committed during the past year. Presiding was Judge Eugene Rose, with Michael Rodgers serving as clerk. Judge Rose, whose feet had been bothering him, was attired in the solemn robes of state, and conducted the trial with the dignity and decorum suitable to the occasion. For the enlightenment of judge and jury, several of the crimes were enacted. Although neither was enlightened, members of the class displayed their acting ability and enjoyed themselves.

As a matter of fact, there was nothing especially enlightening about either skit, but for enjoyment, and excitement, they cannot be equaled, and Junior Day will be long remembered in the hearts and minds of the Class of '55!

SENIOR PLAY

Senior Play

I'm a little termite whose home is in the open mouth of one of those fellows who are carved on the old auditorium wall.

Well, to get to the point, for two months my afternoon nap was outrageously disturbed by a group of humans who thought they could act. Not that I'm complaining or anything like that, but just read some of the incidents that caused my peaceful little abode to become a state of chaos.

In the beginning, about fifteen boys and twice as many girls arrived for tryouts. Somebody by the name of Miss Hoyle made each of the hopefuls read the parts over and over again. To the students, this was a chance to display their dramatic talent, but to me, it was torture.

When the cast was finally chosen, the rehearsals began. At first, everything was rather calm, but that was before the lines had to be learned. Yes sir! They had intentions of making this quite a play with memorization and everything. The only trouble was that they had to remember the words.

Illness played a great part in hampering the progress of the practice sessions. I can recall Miss Hoyle taking practically all the parts herself. She was pretty good, too. I wondered why she didn't get at least a small part herself. Oh well! Maybe it's politics.

One thing that was good about the rehearsals, however, was the food. Thanks to the kind-hearted cafeteria staff, sandwiches were sent up to the cast. Even though we termites prefer wood, I deeply appreciated the crumbs of cream cheese and cherry which were dropped by an over-anxious gourmet.

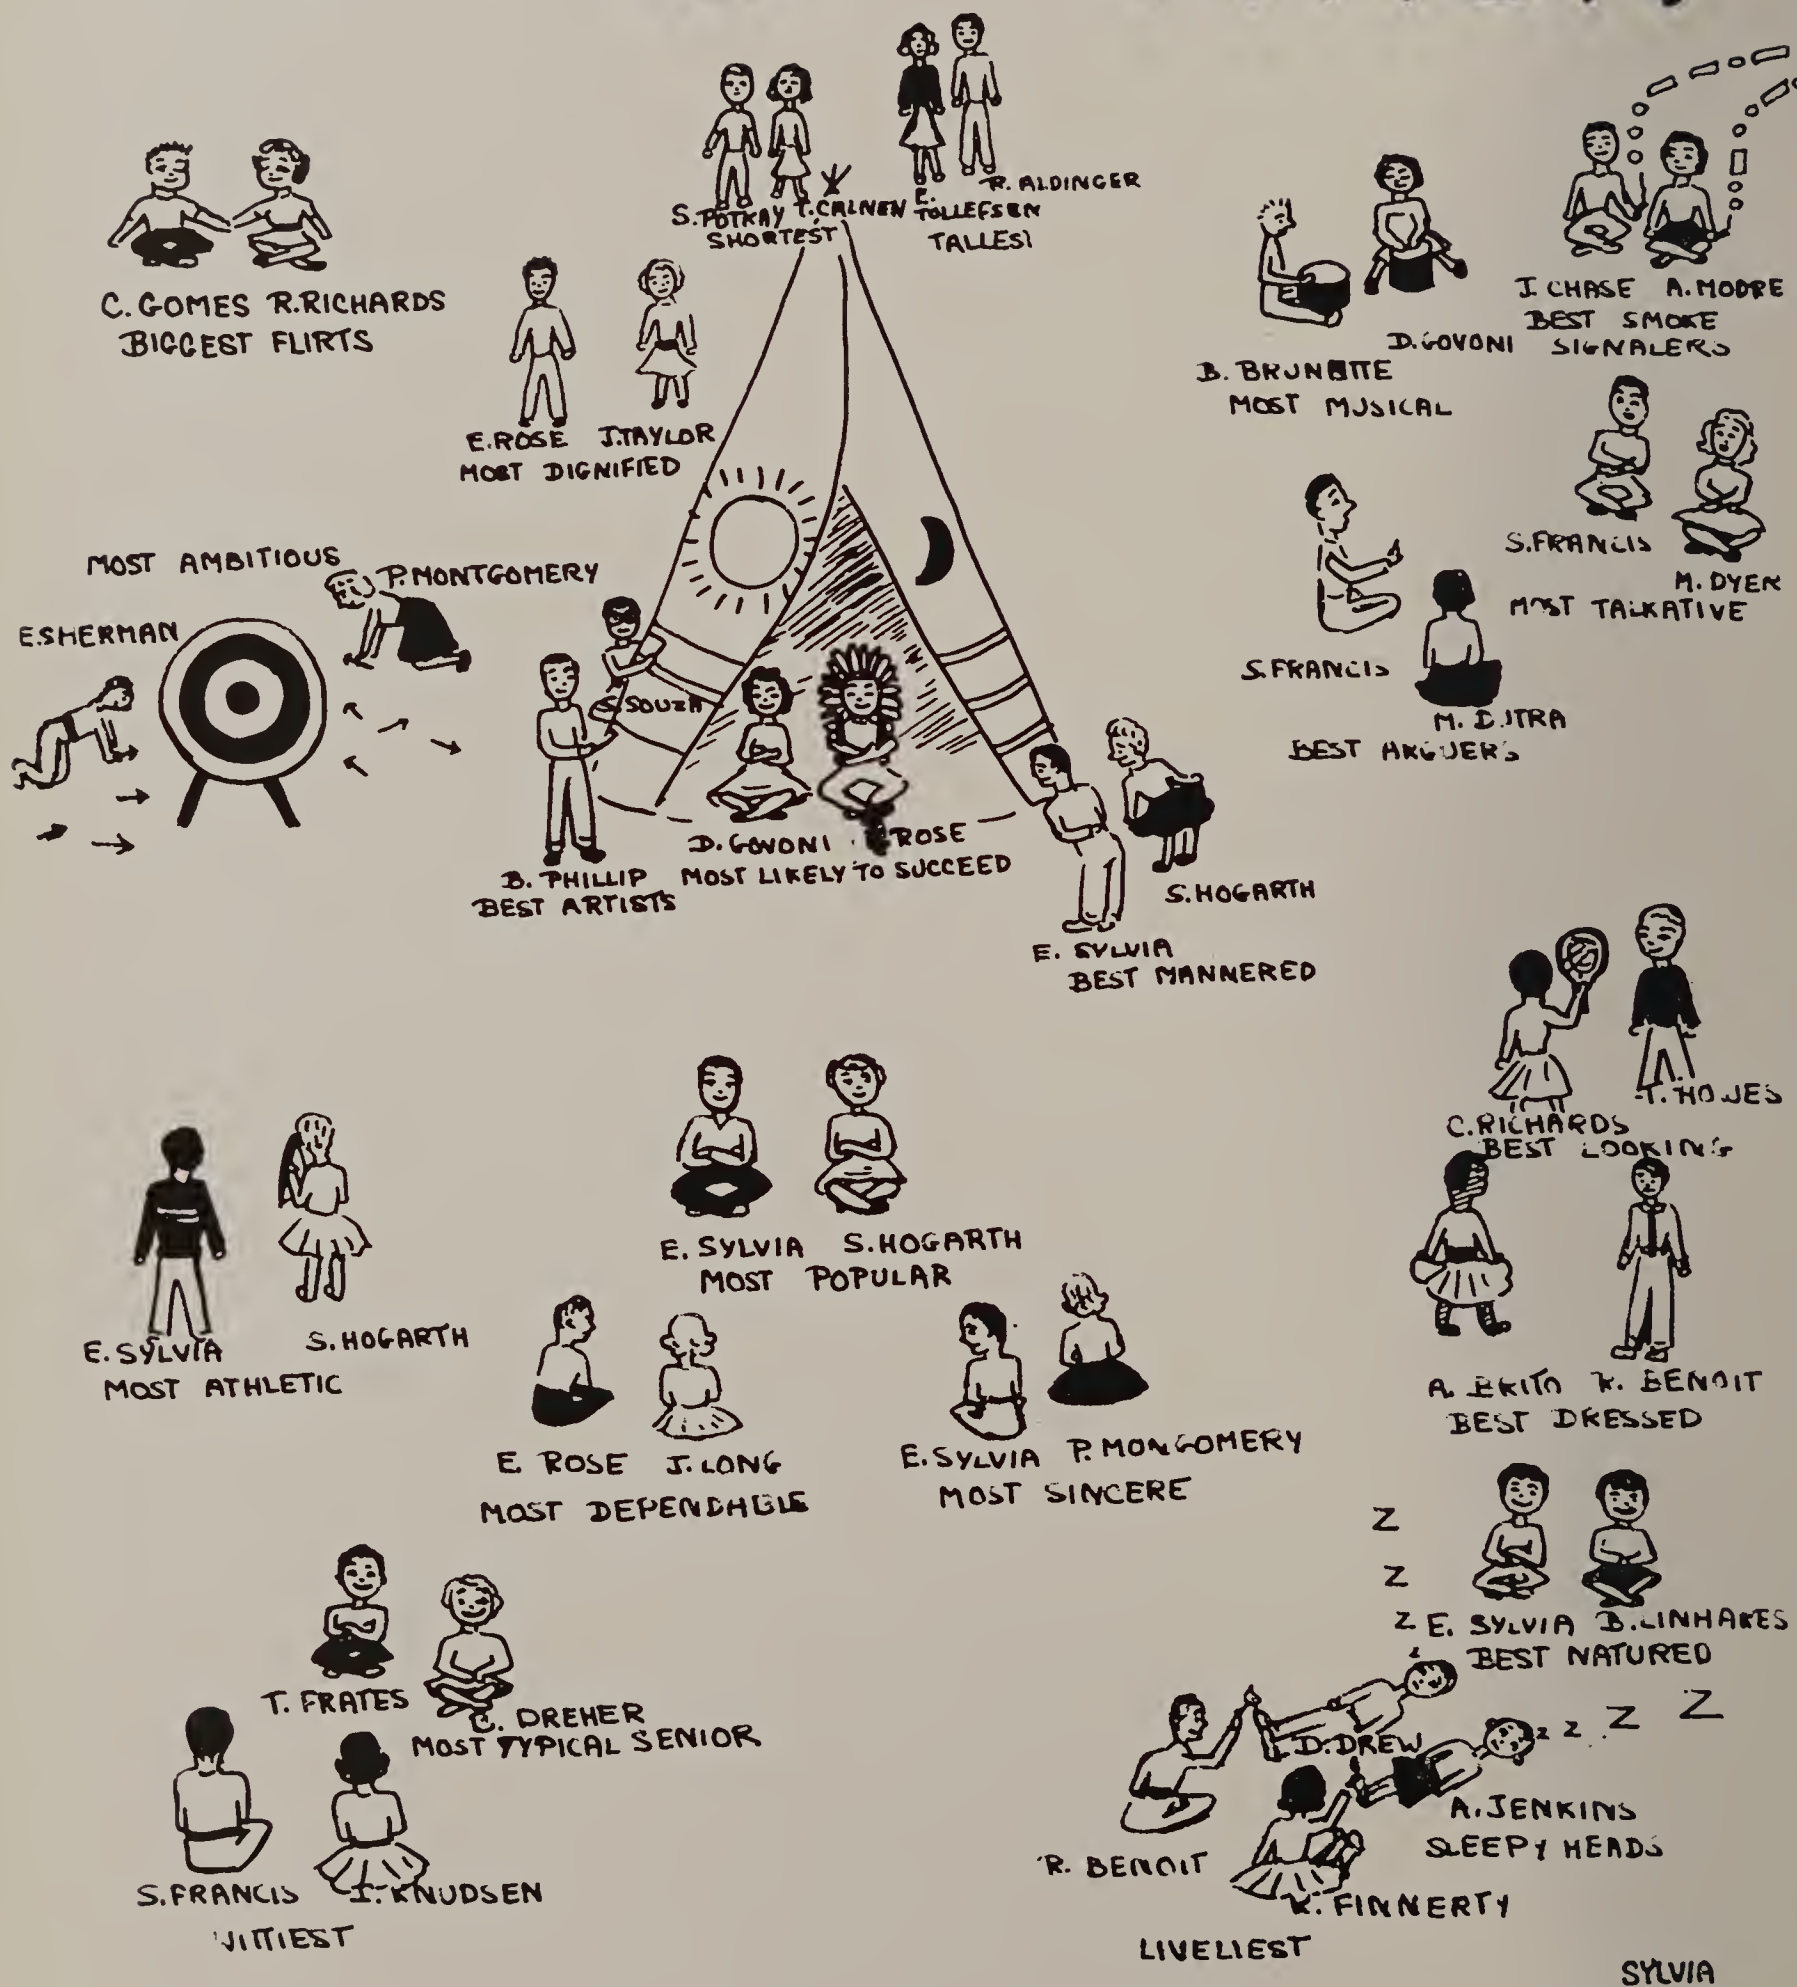

After ten weeks of strenuous practicing, the play began to look very good indeed. "Cap and Gown", the name of the production, was written by Dana Thomas. Mike Rodgers had his share of troubles portraying an ambitious father whose eyes were set on a college diploma for not only his three children but also himself. Jo Longmore played the mother who was driven to tears and nearly divorced by her philandering husband, and, as it turned out, the only person Father was meeting was his sister, played by Susan Murphy. Ray Martin, who played Susan's suspicious husband, was the uneducated member of the family. Ken Niznik, who played the young son, and Don Brennan, cast as the villain of the play, both vied for the attention of "Mim" Pacheco. "Jocie" Kinney was hilarious as the "chef" of the family, and Judy Taylor also did a fine portrayal of the other daughter. "Luke" Poyant rounded out the well-chosen cast by taking the part of the dignified college professor. June Long was present at every rehearsal, too, bearing the weight of the prompter's duties. Both Dick Keyes and Harvey Pendleton expertly constructed the set for the presentation.

When my family and I decided that the play would be worth seeing in full, we immediately began the pleasant task of eating our way to the new auditorium.

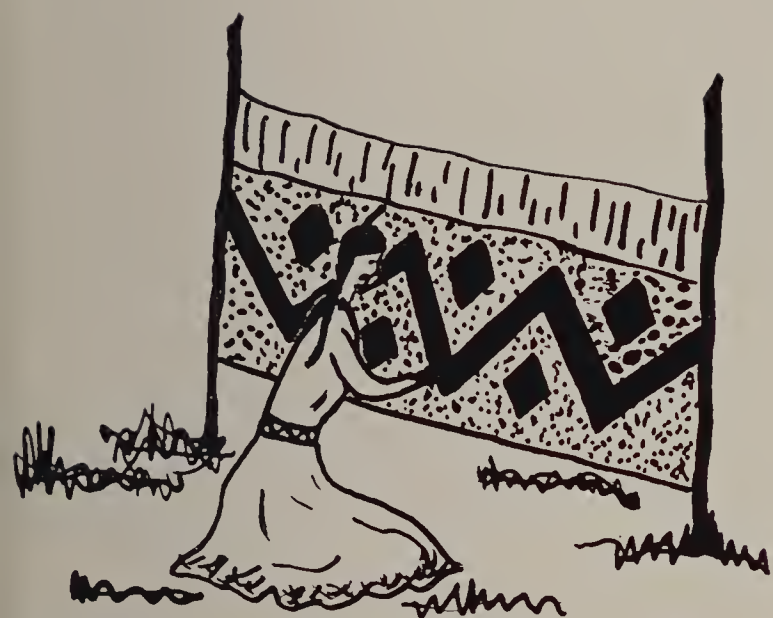

All in all, I suppose my ordeal wasn't so bad at that, because from what I've heard, my ancestors had to put up with the very same behavior from other Senior Classes for what seemed like centuries. My hopes, however, are that next year's Senior Class will present a silent movie.

FHS RESERVATION

ACTIVITIES

Honor Society

Each year, in January, students who have attained high standards of scholarship, service, character, and leadership, are initiated into the Fairhaven High School Chapter, Chapter 573, of the National Honor Society.

Thus, on January 26, 1955, the officers of the Society, Margaret Montgomery, President; Virginia Kowal, Vice President, Blanche Pepin, Secretary, and Arnett Jenkins, Treasurer; initiated twenty-one candidates. While members; Dorothy Govoni, Patricia Govoni, Rita Guilmette, Mary Hennessy, Jocelyn Kinney, Irene Knudsen, Julia Mello, Miriam Pacheco, Thomas Ohnesorge, Eugene Ross, and William Whitehead, the Junior Class, the Student Council, honor students, and guests looked on, the candidates, forming the Shield of Truth, took the vows and received the Spirit of Light. The initiates were, from the Class of 1955; Donald Brennan, Patricia Cabral, Anna Carlson, Patricia Higgins, Judith Taylor, and Mary Jane Wilcox, and, from the Class of 1956; David Brenneke, Carol French, David Heap, Lois Heuberger, Nathan Heuberger, Pauline Kolasz, Susan Leach, Katharine Mahoney, Millicent Morgan, Richard Norris, Jeanne Paiva, John Rogers, Anne Sherman, Janice Snook, and Marilyn Taber.

The four points of the Shield of the Honor Society represent its ideals, — Scholarship, Service, Character, and Leadership. Every member of the Honor Society strives to attain these four virtues, which Mr. Flavel M. Gifford, Superintendent of Schools, in his Charge to the Members, explained as the "Keys to Success".

Key Club

The Fairhaven High School Key Club is one of a nationwide network of similar clubs sponsored by the Kiwanis International.

This year, the club's activities have included several fund-raising projects; the Coca Cola concession at basketball games, the sale of Christmas trees and wreaths, football pennants, and the running of a successful dance.

Continuing its work in bringing interesting assembly programs to the school, the Key Club arranged programs at which such speakers appeared as Judge August C. Taveira, Mr. Quaker, and Aunt Jemima of General Mills. In addition, the Key Club sponsored the second successive Key Club - Faculty game.

Besides helping their own school, Key Clubbers found time to lend a hand in establishing clubs at New Bedford Vocational High School and to raise enough money to send a group of under-privileged children to Edaville Railroad at Christmas.

Thus, by service to school, community, and nation, Key Clubbers are gaining valuable experience in leadership, patriotism, and co-operation with others. Officers are Cameron Bangs, President; Antonio Santos, Vice-President; James Hubbard, Secretary; Charles Entwistle, Treasurer. Mr. Chester M. Downing is adviser.

Richard Harding '55

Student Council

The Student Council is composed of representatives of the student body, elected from each home room in the school and dedicated to fostering school spirit, acting as a liason group between students and the administration, and fostering a spirit of good will and cooperation throughout the school.

This year members of the Student Council attended conventions in Stoughton and Hingham. In addition, the Council contributed $27.00 to the American field service, supervised several school elections, sold jewelry in order to aid the Assembly Fund, served as a traffic court to deal with habitual violators of school traffic rules, and considered a good number of school problems. The Council also cooperated throughout the year with the Fairhaven Improvement Association.

Officers of the group are Thomas Howes, president; Nathan Heuberger, vice-president, and Carol Chace, secretary. Faculty adviser is Mr. Earl J. Dias.

Rosemary Richards '55

The Blue Banner

For the first time in many years, Fairhaven High School students are reading a school newspaper known as The Blue Banner.

In a contest to select a name for the new monthly school paper, the name Blue Banner, submitted by Carol French, was selected over many entries.

Adopted by the Juniors as a class project, the paper is capably staffed by Marilyn Taber as editor-in-chief and William Reed as co-editor-in-chief. Assistant editors who compile and write entertaining and informative articles are Janice Snook and Caroline Walsh. Faculty members aiding this diligent group are Mrs. Chester Downing, Mrs. Margaret Howland, and Earl J. Dias.

The Huttlestonian salutes our newest periodical. Long may the Blue Banner wave!

Band

Once again, the Fairhaven High School Band can be proud of its accomplishments. Under the supervision of Miss Hastings and Mr. Bartholo, the band added greatly to the football games, displaying laudable routines.

In December, the annual Band Tag Day was held, resulting in the collection of $720. This substantial sum was added to the instrumental fund.

Something new was experienced by the band this year: a weekend trip to Plainville, Connecticut, whose band visited Fairhaven last spring. A combination of rehearsals, parties, and a combined concert completed the weekend, which was definitely rewarding. It was the start of something different for our band.

The next objective of the band is the annual Pops Concert, an event which is certain to provide enjoyment for all, in addition to increasing the band fund.

After the Southeastern Massachusetts Music Festival, in Mansfield, and the New England Music Festival, at the University of Rhode Island, another prosperous year will come to an end for the Fairhaven High School Band.

Jo Ann Longmore '55

Orchestra

The Senior Orchestra of Fairhaven High School under the direction of Miss Elizabeth I. Hastings, has a membership of fifty-five this year. Students entering this group are tested on ability in sight reading and as soloists. It is the particular responsibility of the Senior Orchestra to play for assemblies.

In addition to ensemble playing, emphasis on solo and trio work has been made this year. Included in this division are violin, cello, oboe, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, and trombone playing.

Members of the orchestra have been chosen to play in the All-State Orchestra which will open the Eastern Conference of the National Education Association at Symphony Hall in Boston in February.

A return visit to Plainville, Connecticut, in January and trips to Mansfield, Massachusetts, and the University of Massachusetts and the University of Rhode Island for the Massachusetts and New England Music Festivals in the spring, as well as participation in graduation exercises, will climax another year of orchestral accomplishments.

Susan Murphy has been concert mistress and Antonio Santos student director for the 1954-55 season.

Judy Taylor '55

Vocal Music

Everybody likes to sing, and here at F. H. S., we all get a chance to do so under the direction of Mrs. Johnson, in such groups as Choristers, Girls' Glee Club, and Double Quarter.

In Choristers, we find the largest group of boys and girls. When May and June roll around, this group will be practising diligently for the Southeastern Massachusetts Music Festival, and the New England Music Festival.

Now on Monday afternoons, the rafters of the Huttleston Avenue Auditorium ring with feminine voices. This group is the Girls' Glee Club, which will also take part in the aforementioned festivals.

Perhaps, the best-known of these groups is the Double Quartet whose members are Patricia Cabral, Dorothy Govoni, Antonio Santos, Eugene Rose, Rodney Cordeiro, Arthur Boucher, Jo Ann Longmore, and Harriet Hawes. This group has sung for clubs, teas, and socials in New Bedford and Fairhaven, also, assembles, festivals, and this year, this group was selected to go to the All-State Festival in Boston to take part in a chorus, of 360 of the best singers in the state, which will open the National Music Educators' Conference.

Besides learning to sing, we gain other benefits from these choruses. We obtain a good cultural background, and learn to work together toward one goal, and most important, we cement lasting friendships and take with us many wonderful memories.

SPORTS

Girls' Basketball

The girls' "three and four record" was hardly evidence of the effort and energy which they put into each game. Led by Irene Knudsen, elected for the third consecutive year as captain, the girls played whole-heartedly during every contest.

This season terminated thrillingly with Case playing host to our girls and dribbling off the court with a scant and heart-breaking three point victory.

Though most of the first team will be lost through graduation, we still have high expectations for the girls this coming year, and express our sincere hope that they will capture the Narragansett League Championship.

We wish you all the luck in the world!

G. A. A.

The purpose of the Girls' Athletic Association, under the supervision of Miss Anne Hayes, is to bring to every sports-minded Fairhaven High girl the opportunity for learning and mastering the skills of various games which are offered at the school for their enjoyment.

In the fall and spring, the girls enjoyed intra-mural basketball and softball games. A bowling meet was also planned for early spring as were a few other projects.

This year, the G.A.A. has sponsored an annual cake sale, a paper drive, and also, for the first time, has presented to the public an athletic demonstration which included tumbling, marching, and a basketball and volleyball game.

Officers for this year are the following: Sandra Hogarth, President; Irene Knudsen, Vice-President; Vivian Bariteau, Secretary; and Katharine Mahoney, Treasurer.

Sandra Hogarth '55

Cheerleaders

If you have ever attended any Fairhaven High School sporting events, you must have seen and heard those seven lively lassies in neat blue and white, whose crisp precision, originality, and beaming faces have again been a credit to Fairhaven High this year.

Not only do these sunny-dispositioned cheerleaders enthusiastically root their teams on to victory, but they themselves also participate in contests of skill and sportsmanship. Three of this year's squad, Seniors; Audrey Brito, head cheerleader; and Jocelyn Kinney; and Junior, Susan Leach were among those on last year's squad which placed fourth at the annual Cheerleaders' Tournament in Spencer competing against the best in Massachusetts high school cheering. Right now, these same girls together with Juniors; Anne Sherman, Thelma Dahl, Katherine Mahoney, and Janice Suprenant are practicing diligently for this year's tournament.

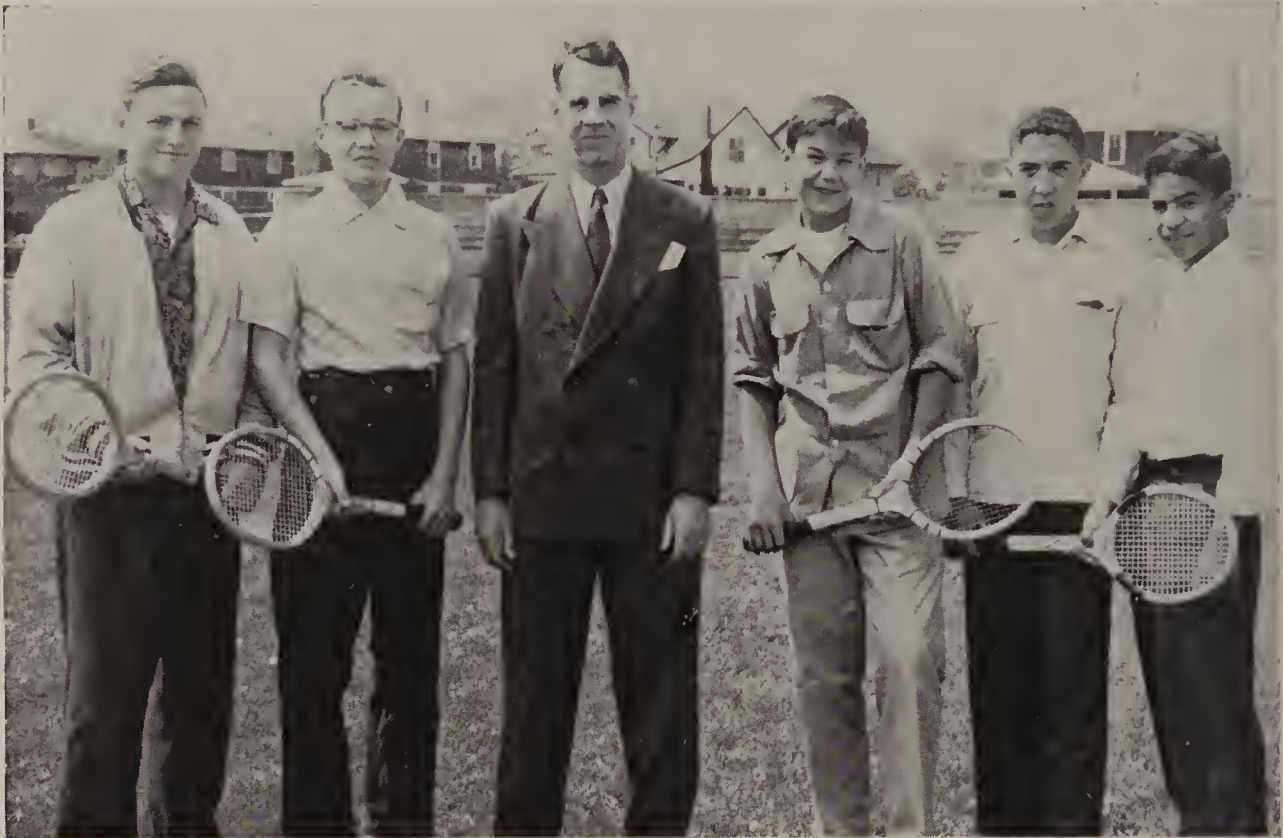

Sophomore, Judith Robinson has had an unusually active year of cheering as the substitute cheerleader and is to be commended for her attentiveness and cooperation.

We congratulate this year's squad and wish the best of luck to next year's. Keep up the fine work, girls!

Jocelyn Kinney '55

Tennis 1954

In the spring, when a young man's fancy supposedly turns to thoughts of love, track, and baseball, tennis sometimes gets neglected. In a school as small as Fairhaven, it is often necessary for one boy to split his time among several sports. Consequently, tennis, as the most recently-introduced sport here, sometimes plays second fiddle.

With this handicap, Coach George Cook's racket-swingers were able to secure only one victory in seven starts. This year's squad consisted of co-captains Earl Sherman and Kenneth Niznik, and John Pina, Edward Sylvia, Russell Shaw, David Brenneke, and Richard Lomba.

The season's record:

FHS	2	Portsmouth Priory	5
FHS	1	Brockton	4
FHS	1	Durfee	3

FHS	0	New Bedford	4

Baseball 1954

The baseball season of '54 turned out to be one of the best in Fairhaven High School's athletic history. The Blue nine suffered only two losses against eleven wins — an outstanding record.

One of the season's highlights was the first meeting with a Durfee High School team in fourteen years. In their first meeting with Durfee, Fairhaven was set back 2-1, but in the second encounter, Fairhaven won in a record-smashing game, 25-1.

Fairhaven was invited to the State Elimination Championships and met Durfee once more. This time Durfee triumphed, 6-1.

Track 1954

A relatively inexperienced track team represented Fairhaven last spring. With only one letterman back from the previous year, Coach Donald Gavin had to break in a flock of new runners.

In four meets, two with Barnstable and one each with Durfee and Voke, Fairhaven's only victory was over Durfee. However, in view of the team's lack of experience, the season was commendable.

Cameron Bangs '55

Football

The fall of 1954 proved one eternal truth to Fairhaven High School gridiron fans — namely, that they can always depend upon Fairhaven High's eleven for a scrappy forty minutes of football every Saturday afternoon. The season, it is true, got off to a slow start when Fairhaven took a 6-0 loss at the hands of Voke. However, the Blue went on a rampage the following week by defeating Attleboro, 14-7, and by following this welcome victory with a triumph over Barnstable, 21-7.

All season, the team was plagued by 6-0 losses. In fact, Voke, New Bedford, and Durfee all defeated the boys in blue by that score. Perhaps the highlight of the season came when the battling Fairhaven eleven held mighty Wareham to only 20 points. Until its game with Fairhaven, Wareham had scored at least 40 points in each of its games.

To round out the season, Captain Tony Frates was chosen as All-Bristol County center, and John Darwin was selected for the second team.

The season's record:

FHS 0	Voke 6
FHS 14	Attleboro 7
FHS 21	Barnstable 7
FHS 0	New Bedford 6
FHS 28	Coyle 7
FHS 7	Wareham 20

Cameron Bangs '55

Basketball

The 1954-55 season marked the first time in many years that the Fairhaven High School basketball team did no better than to break even. Of the 18 games played, the Fairhaven hoopsters won 9 and lost 9.

Arch-rivals New Bedford and New Bedford Voke each managed to defeat Fairhaven twice, although the second encounter was an extremely close one which found Fairhaven on the losing end of a 48-46 score.

The future looks bright, however, for the second team had a successful season, and Coach Mel Entin obviously has spent much time with these young players developing their skills — a development which should pay off in a year or two. In fact, with these youngsters as a nucleus for the future, Fairhaven undoubtedly will again be in on the Victory Parade.

The season's record:

FHS 66	Dighton 52	FHS 46	Voke 48
